21           CASE NO. 08 CV 1476 JM POR
 22          ANSWER OF RESPONDENTS
 23          INTERACTIVE DATA CORP. AND
 24          INTERACTIVE PRICING AND REFERENCE DATA, INC.

25           Respondents INTERACTIVE DATA CORP. ("IDCO") and INTERACTIVE
 26          DATA PRICING AND REFERENCE DATA, INC. ("PRD") (collectively, 27          "Respondents"), hereby answer the Petition for Order to Show Cause re Contempt
 28          for Failure to Comply with Subpoena Issued by FINRA Arbitrator (the "Petition") as set forth below.<sup>1</sup>

29
 30          <sup>1</sup> Respondents have removed this action from the Superior Court of the State of California for the 31          County of San Diego, Case No. 37-2008-00056017-CU-PT:NC.

1       1. Respondents lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
2 regarding the allegations set forth in paragraph 1 of the Petition.

4       2. Respondents deny that Respondent IDCO is also known as PRD, and
5 further deny that either entity has an office in the County of San Diego.
6 Respondents admit the remaining allegations contained in paragraph 2 of the 7 Petition.

9       3. Respondents lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
10 regarding the allegations set forth in paragraph 3 of the Petition, except that 11 Respondents admit that they are aware of the existence of the subject arbitration
12 proceeding so-titled.

13
14       4. Respondents lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
15 regarding the allegations set forth in the first sentence of paragraph four of the 16 Petition. Respondents admit the allegation contained in the second sentence of 17 paragraph four of the Petition.

18
19       5. Respondents lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
20 regarding the allegations set forth in paragraph 5 of the Petition.

21
22       6. Respondents admit that PRD provides pricing information on 23 securities, but otherwise lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
24 regarding the allegations set forth in paragraph 6 of the Petition.

25
26       7. Respondents lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief
27 regarding the allegations set forth in paragraph 7 of the Petition.

1       8. Respondents admit the allegation set forth in paragraph 8 of the 2 Petition. Respondents further state that, as they are not parties to the FINRA
3 arbitration, they did not have the opportunity to object to any aspect of the 4 subpoena before the Chairman or the arbitration panel.

6       9. Respondents admit that they received the subpoena. Respondents
7 otherwise deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 9 of the Petition, as the 8 Chairman and the arbitration panel did not have the authority to issue a subpoena
9 for pre-hearing discovery to Respondents, who are non-parties to a FINRA
10 arbitration subject to the Federal Arbitration Act ("the FAA"). 9 U.S.C. § 7.

11
12      10. Respondents state that the letter referenced in paragraph 10 of the 13 Petition, and attached as Exhibit E to the accompanying Declaration of Counsel,
14 speaks for itself. Respondents further state that the subpoena is unenforceable as a
15 subpoena for pre-hearing discovery to non-parties in aid of a FINRA arbitration
16 subject to the FAA. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents further state that the subpoena is 17 overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, on information and belief,
18 Petitioners have already received a large volume of the information they seek from 19 parties to the arbitration.

20
21      11. Respondents state that the letter referenced in paragraph 11 of the 22 Petition, and attached as Exhibit F to the accompanying Declaration of Counsel,
23 speaks for itself.

24
25      12. Respondents state that the letter referenced in paragraph 12 of the 26 Petition, and attached as Exhibit G to the accompanying Declaration of Counsel,
27 speaks for itself. Respondents further state that the subpoena is unenforceable as a
28 subpoena for pre-hearing discovery to non-parties in aid of a FINRA arbitration

1 subject to the FAA. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents further state that the subpoena is
2 overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, at the request of counsel for 3 Petitioners, Respondents provided further, detailed information regarding the undue 4 burden and expense that responding to the subpoena would impose upon them in 5 the June 10, 2008, letter referenced in paragraph 12 of the Petition. Respondents
6 further state that, on information and belief, Petitioners have already received a
7 large volume of the information they seek from parties to the arbitration.

9 13. Respondents state that the letter referenced in paragraph 13 of the 10 Petition, and attached as Exhibit H to the accompanying Declaration of Counsel,
11 speaks for itself.

13 14. Respondents state that the letter referenced in paragraph 14 of the 14 Petition, and attached as Exhibit I to the accompanying Declaration of Counsel,
15 speaks for itself. Respondents further state that the subpoena is unenforceable as a
16 subpoena for pre-hearing discovery to non-parties in aid of a FINRA arbitration
17 subject to the FAA. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents further state that the subpoena is
18 overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, on information and belief,
19 Petitioners have already received a large volume of the information they seek from 20 parties to the arbitration.

21
22 15. Respondents state that the allegations set forth in paragraph 15 of the 23 Petition purport to state a legal conclusion as to which no response is required. To 24 the extent a response is required, Respondents deny the allegation set forth in 25 paragraph 15 of the Petition and state that the FINRA arbitration is subject to the 26 FAA.

1       16. Respondents state that the allegations set forth in paragraph 16 of the
2 Petition purport to state a legal conclusion as to which no response is required.
3 Further answering, Respondents state that the FINRA arbitration is subject to the 4 FAA and the subpoena is therefore unenforceable as a subpoena for pre-hearing
5 discovery to non-parties. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents further state that the subpoena
6 is overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, on information and belief,
7 Petitioners have already received a large volume of the information they seek from 8 parties to the arbitration.

10     17. Respondents state that the allegations set forth in paragraph 17 of the 11 Petition purport to state a legal conclusion as to which no response is required and,
12 moreover, that the provisions referenced and quoted in paragraph 17 of the Petition
13 speak for themselves. Further answering, Respondents state that the FINRA
14 arbitration is subject to the FAA and the subpoena is therefore unenforceable as a
15 subpoena for pre-hearing discovery to non-parties. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents 16 further state that the subpoena is overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, on 17 information and belief, Petitioners have already received a large volume of the 18 information they seek from parties to the arbitration.

19
20     18. As non-parties to the arbitration, Respondents lack knowledge or 21 information sufficient to form a belief about the allegations set forth in paragraph
22 18 of the Petition. Further answering, Respondents state that the FINRA arbitration
23 is subject to the FAA and the subpoena is therefore unenforceable as a subpoena for 24 pre-hearing discovery to non-parties. 9 U.S.C. § 7. Respondents further state that 25 the subpoena is overly broad and unduly burdensome, and that, on information and 26 belief, Petitioners have already received a large volume the information they seek 27 from parties to the arbitration.

AFFIRMATIVE AND ADDITIONAL DEFENSES*FIRST DEFENSE

The subpoena is unenforceable, as it purports to seek pre-hearing discovery from non-parties in connection with a FINRA arbitration proceeding subject to the FAA. 9 U.S.C. § 7. While an arbitrator may issue subpoenas requiring non-parties to appear at and bring documents to an arbitration hearing, arbitrators do not have the power to require non-parties to submit to pre-hearing discovery. See Hay Group, Inc. v. E.B.S. Acquisition Corp., 360 F.3d 404, 411 (3rd Cir. 2004) (holding that an arbitration panel does not have the power to issue a subpoena for pre-hearing document production from a non-party); COMSAT Corp. v. Nat'l Sci. Found., 190 F.3d 269, 276 (4th Cir. 1999) (holding that the arbitrator did not have the power to issue a subpoena for pre-hearing discovery from a non-party in the absence of special need).

SECOND DEFENSE

The subpoena is overly broad, unduly burdensome, and compliance with it would be enormously and unreasonably costly. Indeed, the subpoena seeks a vast volume of documents from Respondents and, as set forth more fully in the Declaration of Sigal Lewkowicz filed in support of Respondents' Notice of Removal, producing documents in response to the subpoena would cost Respondents well over $1.6 million and result in substantial and unnecessary disruption of their business. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(c)(1) ("A party or attorney responsible for issuing and serving a subpoena must take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to the subpoena. The issuing court must enforce this duty and impose an appropriate sanction – which may include lost earnings and reasonable attorney's fees – on a party or attorney who fails to comply.").

1                   THIRD DEFENSE

2                 The time provided for responding to the subpoena – two business days – was 3                 unreasonably short.

4                   FOURTH DEFENSE

5                 Enforcement of the arbitration subpoena, at substantial burden and expense
6                 to Respondents, is unnecessary, as Petitioners have received a large volume of the 7                 information they seek from parties to the arbitration. Since the subpoena was 8                 issued in April 2008, Respondents have reason to believe that National Financial 9                 Services LLC (“NFS”), a respondent in the arbitration proceeding, has produced
10                 approximately 35,000 documents relating to pricing to Petitioners, as well as all of 11                 the agreements between NFS and PRD dating back to 1997. These documents were 12                 produced in June and July of this year, subsequent to the subpoena’s issuance and,
13                 on information and belief, subsequent to the arbitration panel’s issuance of the 14                 subpoena to IDCO and PRD. Given Petitioners’ receipt of a vast number of 15                 documents that are responsive to the subpoena from a party to the arbitration and 16                 the fact that the documents relevant to Petitioners’ claims are in the possession of 17                 parties to the arbitration, enforcement of the subpoena as against non-parties, at 18                 enormous burden and expense, is unnecessary.

19                  FIFTH DEFENSE

20                 The subpoena seeks the discovery of trade secrets and other proprietary 21                 information.

22                  SIXTH DEFENSE

23                 The Petition fails to state, in whole or in part, a claim on which relief can be 24                 granted.

25                  SEVENTH DEFENSE

26                 Respondents reserve the right to amend this answer to add all matters that 27                 may constitute an affirmative or additional defense.

1                   WHEREFORE, Respondents Interactive Data Corp. and Interactive Data
2 Pricing and Reference Data, Inc., respectfully request that this Honorable Court:
3                   1. Enter judgment in favor of Respondents;
4                   2. Award Respondents their costs and fees as provided by law and, if,
5 contrary to law, the Court orders that Respondents must comply with any aspect of 6 Petitioners' subpoena, award Respondents their costs and fees associated with such 7 compliance; and
8                   3. Award such further relief in favor of Respondents as this Court deems 9 just.

10                  RESPONDENTS RESPECTFULLY REQUEST THAT THE COURT
11 ALLOW ORAL ARGUMENT, AND PERMIT BRIEFING IN ADVANCE
12 THEREOF, BEFORE RENDERING A DECISION IN CONNECTION WITH 13 THE MATTERS SET FORTH IN THE PETITION AND THIS ANSWER.
